Miniature Country Club

Where Nebraska City Plays Golf

The summer of 1931 promises to be another big season for Miniature Golf, the midget sport, which last summer grew to be a mighty giant within the realm of national sport. Its appearance in Nebraska City last summer met with such a welcome that its popularity again this year seems assured as a pastime for the multitude.

Our 27-hole course, located in the heart of Nebraska City, shall be re-opened to the public with the advent of clement weather, probably early in April. In an effort to make the game as thoroughly enjoyable to our patrons as it was last year, the management will make many changes and improvements in the course. New holes will be built to replace the original ones. Floral decorations will improve the general park-like appearance of the grounds and every effort possible will be made to lend atmosphere to the golfer's playing.

The thousands of enthusiasts who last year spent many diverting evenings playing Miniature Golf shall be given every opportunity to enjoy their favorite evening pastime again this year on the Links of the Miniature Country Club, the first midget course in Otoe County, and one of the pioneers in the game's immigration to Nebraska. The public is invited to view the course at all times and provision for the spectators' comfort shall be our aim on all occasions.

Further announcement concerning the official opening of the course shall be made at a later date.

This circular, if presented before June 1st, 1931, with one paid admission, will entitle the holder to one free game of golf.

The street in the picture is Central Avenue, between 15th and 16th streets, in Nebraska City, Neb.
